SHARE OUR STORIES, OUR OWN WAY, IN OUR OWN WORDS.

We are documenting and mapping Musqueam Public Art Installations and promoting Musqueam's presence throughout our traditional territory. We are currently focusing our documentation on the following regions: Musqueam Indian Reserve No. 2., the UBC Campus, the City of Richmond, the City of Vancouver, and municipalities just outside of Vancouver.

We proudly celebrate our community's achievements to enhance our nation's place in the wider public sphere. More>>

CAMA'I - HELLO

WELCOME TO THE NAKEN-NATMEN PROJECT

The Kodiak Alutiiq language is severely threatened. Today there are just 33 fluent Native Alutiiq speakers remaining in the Kodiak region, with approximately 10 speakers actively working on language revitalization.

The Naken-Natmen project is an effort to engage language learners, speakers, and linguistic researchers in language revitalization by making language archives accessible.

This portal shares previous recordings of the Kodiak Alutiiq language.

MEET THE SPEAKERS

Click here to meet the Alutiiq speakers contributing to the documentation of the Alutiiq Language.

VISIT THE COLLECTIONS

To date, the Alutiiq Museum has over one and a half terabytes of Alutiiq language documentation. Many of the recordings are available here. Click to begin exploring the collections.

ABOUT THE PROJECT

The site was developed with a grant from the National Science Foundation to make Alutiiq language resources accessible to researchers. Click here to learn about the project.

Wumpurrarni-kari Archive

Welcome to the Mukurtu Wumpurrarni-kari Archive, a digital database of Warumungu culture and history. The content and access parameters of this archive are managed by the Warumungu community in Tennant Creek, NT, Australia. The archive contains photos, digital video clips, audio files and digital images of cultural artifacts and documents. Many of these items can be viewed by the public. Others are restricted based on a set of Warumungu cultural protocols for the viewing and distribution of cultural knowledge.

CULTURAL NARRATIVE:

These three ladies are in a traditional plateau camp during a celebration. The ladies are all wearing buckskin dresses more reserved for dancing and ceremonies. Their dresses are somewhat longer in length so this tells me that they are not Cayuse, Umatilla or Walla Walla. Two of the ladies are not married in this picture, one with the beaded headband the other with the headband and one eagle feather. The lady on the end wearing two feathers in her headband would draw the conclusion she is married in my beliefs and customs. I have a strong feeling that the first lady is Virginia Beavert/Yakama. Jolena Tillequots, Yakama

TRADITIONAL KNOWLEDGE:

Ceremony

Young woman would wear these during the feast time with their hats (patlupah) and serve their traditional foods of roots and berries. If they were participating in a funeral it would be a sign of respect for the individual that had passed. Jolena Tillequots, Yakama

Configuring Communities

In the panels below, locate the box labelled 'Communities and Protocols'. We will be using this block for our next two lessons.

Communities and Protocols are at the Core of your Mukurtu CMS. Communities group together site users: the WHO of Mukurtu. Through membership in communities, users can interact with and join cultural protocols. Cultural Protocols are HOW content is shared between people.

Please watch the video on the right to learn:

- How to create and edit a community
- How to add media to your community page
- Default cultural protocols within a community
- How to add members to your community
- Roles in a community

To move forward with your orientation, click the 'Cultural Protocols' tab to learn about Cultural Protocols. To leave this wizard at any time, click 'hide wizard' above.

Northwest Archivists 2016

Northwest Archivists 2016

You are the group manager Create Digital Heritage Content >> Create Cultural Protocol >>

The Mukurtu team will hold a full day, hands-on, workshop on Mukurtu CMS site building at the Northwest Archivists Annual Conference in Seattle, April 28th-30th, 2016.

In this workshop, participants will get hands-on experience with Mukurtu CMS and Mukurtu Mobile. Participants will learn:

1. Basic site set up,
2. Core features,
3. Step-by-step procedures to curate digital heritage items with Mukurtu CMS and how to collect content using Mukurtu Mobile.

Participants will see examples of Mukurtu CMS in use in communities emphasizing preservation strategies, cultural protocols, and the use of traditional knowledge labels for items and collections.

Accounts created for workshops will retain group membership, but will have other privileges removed (community and protocol management, digital heritage item creation). For extended access after attending a workshop, please contact support@mukurtu.org

More information about

Describe this cultural protocol group within the larger context of the site and other groups. Is membership in this group based on age, gender, or other social categories? You are allowed to drag items from the media library into this field. For this to work, there must be some content below where you place the item (even just a blank line). The media item will be inserted, along with a line of text showing its title and author (which you may choose to remove). Note, certain media types (eg. audio, Youtube video) do not render well or at all within the edit box, but show correctly within the content view. If you wish to visualize or adjust the placement of such media items, try switching to the plain text editor.

Welcome to your Site Dashboard. Let's start with a dashboard orientation...

This is your administrative dashboard. Only you and other administrators will be able to access these panels. You may use them to manage all the features of Mukurtu. If you find yourself needing help at any time, make your way back to this dashboard by clicking 'dashboard' in the top right corner of your screen.

Notice how the boxes below correspond to different functions you can perform as a site administrator. In the following steps and videos, we will walk through some of these features together.

To get started, click the 'Site Setup' tab and start setting up your Mukurtu Site. To leave this wizard at any time, click 'hide wizard' above.

Questions and Evaluation

Additional Question!

1) Would you be interested in another Mukurtu workshop in Montana?

2) Would you require funding?

(Write on back of evaluation.)
